

B.COMM./JD LAW
COMBINED DEGREE PROGRAM
EFFECTIVE AS OF SEPTEMBER 2018*

What is the combined program?

The Combined B.Comm./JD Law program allows a student to obtain both the Business and Law degrees in six years rather than the seven needed to complete both degrees separately.

- Students interested in pursuing this program should speak with an Edwards Undergraduate Programs Advisor
- Students pursuing this program spend three years in Edwards completing core and major requirements for the B.Comm. degree before transferring to the College of Law (applying to the program in their third year)
- The B.Comm. degree is typically obtained after completing second year Law requirements
- The Clinical Law Practicum and Clinical Law Seminar cannot be used toward B.Comm. requirements; students pursuing this option will complete their B.Comm. degree after third year Law
- Admission to the College of Law is not guaranteed
- 100 level non-COMM electives must be from the social sciences or humanities
- 60 credit units must be completed as an Edwards student – max 30 credits transferrable from Law + 30 credits from another college or institution
- Students admitted to Law are no longer considered Edwards students and are no longer eligible to receive Edwards awards
